Product Description

Solar PV protection Fuse Holder 1000V DC for PV Fuse Link

1.Ceramic Fuse Link High Quality series of fuse consists of fuse link and fuse base. The variable cross-section fuse body made by pure copper piece (or copper wire, silver wire, silver piece) is sealed in the fusion tube which is made by the high strength porcelain or epoxy glass cloth pipe, there is full of the high-purity quartz sand and processed after chemistry to take the extinguishing of arc medium in the tube. The two sides of the fuse use the spot welding to reliably connect with the end plate and to form the cylindrical cap shape structure. Fuse base suppressed by the resin or plastic casing fitted with contacts and contains the fusion pieces, the connection made by riveting as the support of the appropriate size fuse body parts. This series of fuse has many merits such as small in size, convenient for installation, safe in usage, beautiful in appearance and so on.

Product Function

1. With protection function

The primary function of the fuse holder is the protection function, which is to play a certain role when it is necessary to protect electrical appliances and fuses. Generally speaking, the rated current of the fuse is higher than the normal use current of our electrical appliances, and it also has a certain overload capacity. However, if our current margin is too large, it will cause the protective effect of the fuse. At this time, the fuse holder plays its protective role and acts as a fuse.

2. With bearing function

At the beginning of the article, we mentioned that the fuse holder is an accessory used to place the fuse. Put various fuses on the fuse holder in a certain order, which can not disturb the function of each fuse. At the same time, because it is a special place to place fuses, it provides considerable convenience for the follow-up problem finding and maintenance. For this reason, we can say that the fuse holder has the bearing function and is convenient for subsequent use and maintenance
